

Science policy in California state government

Tuesday – October 27, 2020 – 5:00 to 6:30 PM PDT
Online Zoom Event

Please join us for an event co-sponsored by ACS and CCST. We will hear from Sarah Brady, the Deputy Director of the California Council on Science and Technology (CCST), and Gabby Nepomuceno, an environmental scientist at the Department of Toxic Substances Control (DTSC). Dr. Brady previously advised on policy issues in the Legislature and now provides science advice on a broad range of issues to both the California legislative and executive branches. Dr. Nepomuceno advises on hazardous materials policy for the California executive branch and was a CCST Science Fellow in the State Assembly.

The event will include brief presentations on their policy engagement, followed by a Q&A.
